At the Colonial.

Making an equal bid for popularity at the Colonial this week will be Nat Fisher and Pearl Rockaway, in a conversational and singing offering sparkling with wit and cleverness. Their adoption of vaudeville after their success in the musical comedy field promises to establish them as one of the principal features of the new bill. new bill.

For acrobatic art the offering of Wayne and Hart promises to stand out as one of the live wire numbers of the bill.

Bob Warren, a high-class singing entertainer, will have a lot of new stories to tell and comedy songs to sing.

In an illusionistic, sleight-of-hand and magical offering, Prevett and Merrill will round out the vaudeville section with an offering of mystery and humor well calculated to please.

Picture plays indorsed by the National Censors will complete each of the three daily performances, the matinee starting at 3 o'clock, and the night performances at 7:15 and 9 o'clock; the amateurs adding a special comedy feature to the Friday night performances.

"Quo Vadis" at Empire.

George Kleine's fine production of the photodrama adapted from "Quo Vadis," Henry Sienkiewicz's famous romance of ancient Rome, will be shown in the Empire Theatre all this week.

This adaptation is considered one of the biggest achievements up to the present time in photodrama, visualizing the great story with a broad appeal. Lovers of history will revel in the reproduction of the gorgeous pictures of ancient Rome and its famous scenes, and will enjoy the lifelike impersonations of the famous historical characters, Nero, Tigellinus and others. personations of the famous historical characters, Nero, Tigellinus and others. Those romantically inclined will delight in the beautiful story of the love of Vinitius for the sweet Lygia, which turned him from a pagan into a faithful Christian, and the heroic sacrifica of the beautiful slave Eurice for her herbiliant master. The total enrollment for last session was 471, and on a corresponding date of the first term there were 313 men matriculated. As it is likely all those who have registered will matriculate and there are still some of the old students to come in, it appears probable that the attendance for the first term of this year will exceed 509. There are now 17 new students on the grounds, the largest number in the last six years.

Now that the classes for the year have been arranged and the daily military routine has begun, the students are taking an interest in such affairs as go to make up the less scrious side of college life here.
